

Who We Are

WSMT is a team of full-service attorneys who specialize in matters related to energy, natural resources, and land-based development. We are leaders and creative problem-solvers with keen insight into the complexities of both law and land. Our attorneys, diverse in professional experience, have advised governments, participated in drafting legislation, published articles on a wide range of legal matters, and structured business transactions over six continents.

WSMT brings the full force of our high-profile experience and distinguished academic credentials home to the Rockies – with personal service, value, and can-do efficiency – to meet your needs. The WSMT attorney you hire is the attorney who works for you, and our partners remain fully involved and available.

From multinational corporations to entrepreneurial individuals, our clients recognize that the Law of the Land endures in the spirit and integrity of our outstanding team.

For more information about members of the WSMT team, please read our attorney profiles.