Welborn Sullivan Meck & Tooley Announces Addition of Attorneys John A. Masterson and Alaina M. Stedillie to their Casper, WY office

September, 2015 (Denver, CO & Casper, WY) The Energy and Natural Resources firm of Welborn Sullivan Meck & Tooley, P.C. is pleased to announce that attorneys John A. Masterson and Alaina M. Stedillie have joined the Casper office of WSMT.

Mr. Masterson's practice focuses on the areas of Litigation, Energy and Natural Resources, Governmental Relations, Transactional Matters, and Corporate and Non-Profit Governance. Beginning with a return to his hometown of Casper after graduation from the University of Wyoming's College of Law, Mr. Masterson worked for County and District Courts in Natrona County, performing legal research for judges, drafting opinions and decision letters and assisting the court in hearings and jury trials. Following his one-year term, Mr. Masterson began three years of private practice focusing on oil and gas law, criminal defense and domestic relations.

Alaina Stedillie's practice emphasizes commercial and complex civil litigation involving business entities of various sizes. Her experience includes litigation in a wide range of substantive areas, including natural resources and energy law, administrative law, and defense of various tort and contract claims. Alaina has represented multiple clients in the public and private sectors before regulatory and governmental agencies, from both litigation and compliance perspectives. She also enjoys providing pro bono services to individuals and non-profit organizations.
